nutrition/diet grooming/hygiene health/enrichment

Good dental hygiene is crucial for a cat's overall health, as dental disease can lead to serious kidney, liver, and heart problems. The simple act of feeding dry kibble is rarely enough to keep teeth clean.

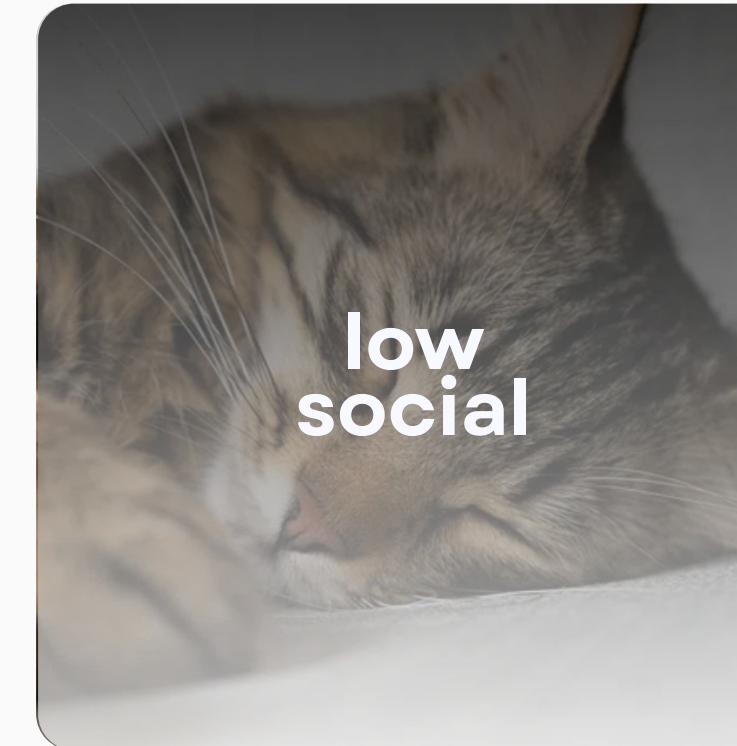

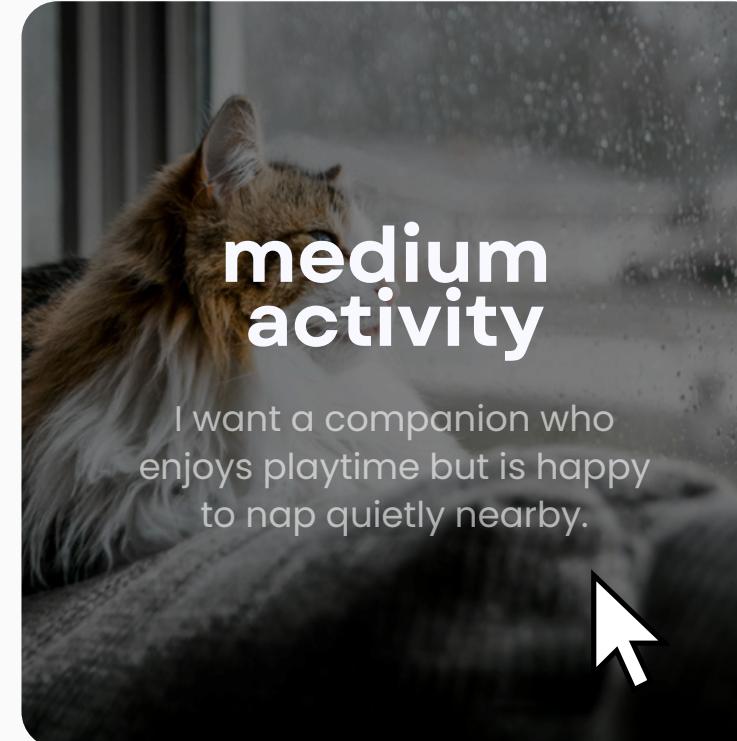

Litter should be scooped once or twice daily. The entire box should be emptied and scrubbed with mild soap and water (avoid harsh chemical cleaners, as the smell can deter cats) every one to four weeks.
